

Declaration for publications incorporated in thesis

Graduate researchers may incorporate their own published material, or material in progress towards publication in their thesis if:

- The graduate researcher contributed greater than 50% of the content in the publication and is the “primary author”, ie. the graduate researcher was responsible primarily for the planning, execution and preparation of the work for publication
- The graduate researcher has approval to include the publication in their thesis from their Advisory Committee
- It is a primary publication that reports on original research conducted by the graduate researcher during their enrolment
- The initial draft of the work was written by the graduate researcher and any subsequent editing in response to co-authors and editors reviews was performed by the graduate researcher
- The publication is not subject to any obligations or contractual agreements with a third party that would constrain its inclusion in the thesis

You must submit this form, along with Co-author authorisation forms completed by each co-author (combined as a single file), when you submit your thesis to the Thesis Examination System: <https://tes.app.unimelb.edu.au/>. If you are incorporating material from multiple publications in your thesis you will need to list each publication on this form. Further information is available at: gradresearch.unimelb.edu.au/preparing-my-thesis/incorporating-publications
